Complex translation workflows made simple.

From May 2020, manufacturers have to submit certification in accordance with the new Medical Device Regulation (MDR) when launching new medical products. Language has become a key factor in ensuring regulatory compliance and the safe use of medical products in the EU.

Spotlight on documentation

Instructions for use are now considered an integral part of a product's technical documentation and must be submitted to the relevant authorities for approval. Linguistic clarity is particularly important when it comes to content intended for end users.

Saving time and money

Qualified specialised translators in the target countries ensure linguistic compliance with the new MDR in all 24 official EU languages. Our experts work with you to find the best solutions and tailor our workflows to your needs. This means we can supply you with clear, easy-to-understand text in the shortest possible timeframe at the best possible price.
